

Here is Your Complimentary Dental Disease Awareness Kit!

According to the American Veterinary Medical Association, most dogs and cats have some evidence of periodontal disease by the age of three. To help your clients with pet dental care questions during National Pet Dental Health Month (or any month), we've put together this complimentary Dental Disease Awareness Kit that your practice can use to help pets avoid the risks of periodontal disease.

We've included a printable poster for your clinic, an educational handout for your clients (that you can print or email), and three social media images that you can post on Facebook to further educate your clients around the importance of pet dental health.

Improve client compliance and animal health outcomes with expert education

Pet owners are more likely to comply with veterinary recommendations when they are better educated about their pet's health and the optimal outcomes that are possible with appropriate care.

LifeLearn's one-of-a-kind client education resource, ClientEd, helps improve client compliance and animal health outcomes through access to one of the industry's largest pet health libraries. Searchable by category, ClientEd's library has more than 2,000 illustrated pet health articles written and reviewed by animal health experts, designed specifically for effective client education.
